A Mountain Summer School

Berea is taking a great step foreward this year in announcing a Summer School for the mountain people.

The School will begin immediately after Commencement and have two parts of five weeks each. Those who cannot spend ten weeks at a Summer School can get something worth-while by staying five weeks. It will be like Chautauqua as well as like term time, lectures, music and conferences on mountain problems. like Berea's other terms, it will have prices made right for young people who are just getting a start.

Narrow Gap

The School at Narrow Gap celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary last Sunday. It has a remarkable history and deserves all the wonderful compliments which it

Twenty-five years ago Narrow Gap was perhaps the darkest nook in Madison County. It centained hardly a single family that could read or abstain from whiskey, and had constant representation in the poor house and Berea College established a "social settlement" at Narrow Gap, and the County co-operated soon after by torming a special school district. Miss Fox gave her earnestness and enthusiasm to the enterprise, and Brother Hudson and Professor Penniman and others contributed. Nearly all the eminent men and women who have adorned Berea in this quarter of the century have made their contribution to Narrow Gap.

Today Narrow Gap is a model and an encouragement for other country districts and the name to quote in many a study of rural conditions.

GREAT EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM PLANNED

Paris.—General Pershing has signed an order establishing an American Army university in France to accommodate 15,000 to 20,000 soldier studeats. The school will be opened at Henune. At the same time the main office of the Y. M. C. A. army educationni commission will be moved from Paris to Benune.

Courses in engineering, liberal and fine arts, science, music and the like will be offered. It is expected that one of the four agricultural exhibits which have been prepared by the department of agriculture in co-operation with the Y. M. C. A. will be a permanent feature at Benune.

The Y. M. C. A. war work counch announced that the cost of the educational program in the A. E. F. had now reached $700,000 n month, Books and supplies costing $1,300,000 have been sent overseas. The army pays for the hooks and distributes them to the soldier students.

Saginaw Cars Stopped,

Saginaw, Mich.-With all street cars held in the harns by the operating company because of a referendum recall of the voters of the war-time sixcent-fare permit, 20,000 Saginaw workers in outlying factory districts will waik to their labor or he transported by automobile. Churchgoers and Suaday workers walked or availed themservice. The company claims that even under the six-cent plan operation of its lines was a financial loss.

EASTER

It is Easter, the gladness of Easter is 'round me!
It is Easter, the sweetness of Easter has found me!

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I-Barton Baynes, orphan, in taken to live with his uncle, Peabody Baynes, and his Aunt Dael on a farm on Itatileroad in a neighborhood esiled Lick-liyaplit, about the year 1826. Barton maeta Bally Ibunkelberg, about his own age, but acclaily of a class above the Bayneses, and is fascinated by the pretty face and fine ctothes.

CHAPTER II—Barton meets Roving Kats, known in the neighborhood as the "Bitsnt Wontan," Amos Grimshaw, young son of the richest man in the township, is a visitor at the lisynes hame, and itoving Kats lells the fortunes of the two boys, predicting a hright future for list-ton and death on the gallows for Amos. Reproved for an act of boyish mischief listron runa away, intending to make his homs with the Dunkelbergs. He resches the village of Canton and falls into a sleep of exhaustion on a porch. There he is found by Slias Wright, Jr., prominent mae in public affairs, who, knowing Peabody Haynes, takes Harion home after buying him new clothes.

CHAPTER III-Barton and his uncte and aunt visit Canton and hear Silas Wright read a germon.

CHAPTER IV—Silas Wright evinces much interest in Barton, and sends a lox of books and magasines to the Haynes home. The efection of Silas Wright to the United States senate is announced.

CHAPTER V-When Barton is twelve years old he becomes aware of the existence of a wonderful and mysterious power known as "Money," and learns how, through his possession of that wonderful thing Grimshaw is the most powerful and greatly dreaded man in the community, most of the eetilers being in his debt. After a visit to the Haynes home Mr. Wright leaves a note in a sealed envelope, which flatton is to read on the first night when he teaves home to attend school.

CHAPTER VI-Berton la asked to drive a load to mill, arrives asfely, but in a anowstoriu, unable to see the road, the horses get into the ditch and a wheel of the wagon la broken. Uncle Frabody manages to get together enough to eatisfy Grimshaw and obtain an extension.

CHAPTER VII—Now in his sixteenth year Darton accompanies "Mr. Furvis," the hired man, to the postoface at Canton. On the way they meet a rider, and the three journey together. They are held up by a man with a gun, who makes the highwaymao's demand of "Your money or your life." Furvis runs away, while the stranger draws a platol, but before he can use it the robbar shoots and tills him. Harton's horse throws him and runs away. As the murderer bends over the stranger Harton throws a stone which he observes wounds the thief, who makes off at noce, but not until tiarton had noted that his gun atock was broken in a peculiar maoner. Search of the neighborhood for the robber is unavailing and the stranger is buried.

CHAPTER VIII-Barton teaves home to attend Michael Hacket's school. Amos Grimshaw is arrested charged with the murder of the stranger.

CHAPTER IX-Grimshaw seeks to brits liarion to be ellent shout his wounding the murderer of the man killed on the road. The offer is spurned.

CHAPTER X-Emissaries of Ben Grimshaw seak to kidnap Barton, or do worse. He is warned by "Silent Kate," and es-

"They say I am worth seeing," said Saily. "This is my friead, Mr. Baynes. When you are tired of sceing me, look a: him.'

I shook the hand he offered me. "Of course, we can't all be good tooking," Sally remarked with a sigh, as if her misfortune were permanent.

Mr. Horace Dunkelberg and I inughed heartly-for I had told him in s whisper what had happened to Saily -while Mr. Latour looked a little emharrassed.

CHAPTER XIM.

Three times that wlater I had seen Itenjamin Grimshaw followed by the Silent Woman clothed in rags and pointing with her finger.

The trial of Amos came on. He had had "blood on his feet," as they used to say, all the way from Lickitysplit to Lewis county in his flight, having nuncked and slightly wounded two men with a bowle knife who had tried to detala him at Italay Lake. He had also shot at an officer is the vicinity of Lowville, where his arrest was effected. He had been identified by all these men, and so his character as a desperate man had been established. This in connection with the scar on his face and the tracks, which the hoots of Amos fitted, and the broken gua slock convlaced the jury of his guilt.

I remember well the look of the venerable Judge Cady as he proremnced the seatence of death apon Amos Grimshaw. A ray of suulight slanting through a window in the late afternoon fell upon his gracious countenance, shining also, with the softer light of his spirit. Slowly, solemaly, kindly, he spoke the words of doom. It was his way of saying them that first made me feel the dignity and majesty of the law. The kind and fatherly tone of his voice put me in mind of that supremest court which is above all question and which was swiftly to enter judgment in this matter and in others related to it.

Slowly the crowd moved out of the courtroom. Itenjanda Grimshaw rose and culmly whispered to his lawyer. He had not spoken to his son or secued to notice him since the trial ind begun, nor did he now. Mnay had shed tears that day, but not he. Mr. Grimshaw never showed but one emotion-that of nnger. He was angry now. His fuce was hard and stern. He muttered as he walked out of the courtroom, his came briskly beating the > Council of Four in Paris Has Agreed on Most of the Peace Problems.

TREATY MAY BE READY SOON

Hint That President Wilson Would Withdraw Has Effect-Soviet Government Set Up in Bavaria Opposed by Pensants-Allies Forced to Evacuate Odessa.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD. Most of the grent problems confronting the peace conference were settled last week by the "Hig Fonr"-perhaps, That is to say, at the close of the week they were settled, but before this renches the render they may be all unsettled again. Such has been the way of the peacemakers in the past. However, if there is not agreement on the vital questions mighty soon, there is some reason to lefleve President Wilson will withdraw from the deliterations and come home. He startled the conference and the world by ordering his transport, the George Washington, made rendy for another trip to Europe, and asking when it might be expected there. Some of the Paris papers declared Mr. Wilson was thus trying to force the French delegates to mitigute their demands; pesstmists saw in the action the probability of hopeless disagreement; optimists said it mennt the treaty was nearly ready for submission to the Germans.

The theory of the optimists was Bart, that God has married us to each borne out by dispatches late in the week stating that the Big Four had agreed: That William Hohenzollern and others responsible for breach of treaty and of rules of war must stand trial, probably before a Beigian court, but that the death penalty should not be imposed on the former kalser; that France shall be given control of the mines of the Saur valley, but shall not be permitted to anaex any of that territory and timt a commission shall regmore strikes by miners there; that Germany must make an initial payment of $5,000,000,000 reparation la 1921, after which a commission shall assess a yearly indemnity.

> The Rhine frontier, the ultimate disposition of Danzig, the Italian claims to Flume and the Dalmatlan coast and some lesser matters remained to be settled at the time these dispatches were sent. That agreement on these questions was betteved to be imminent was ladicated by the fact that the commission to prepare for the signing of the peace trenty at Versallies was busy making the necessary arrangements for that momentous occasion. I'remier Paderewski urged before the council of four that I'olaad should be given Danzig and the coal fields of Teschea, Silesia, but the hellef was that this matter, as well as that of the Ithineland, would be settled in conformity with Mr. Wilson's 14 points, his absotute adhereace to which he again declared; that, of course, would preclude the annexation of enemy territory. How the Italian claims would be aettled there was no intimation.

According to reports, Mr. Lansing's opposition to the British and French desire that the former kaiser should he tried by an international tribunal resulted in the compromise plan stated uhove. The Americans, it was said, were in favor only of a moral indictment without recourse to prosecution, owing to the inck of an international law covering the case. The Japanese representative supported this view. The reparations clause specifies that the enemy countries must admit their responsibility for all losses and damage to nilled and associated nations and their citizens due to unjustitlable aggression; also that Germany is to pay the expenses of the commission during the period-probably thirty they witt use it for the henefit of there years-in which damages are to be collected. The Americans would have preferred that the treaty should same the fixed amonat of indemnity to be collected, but did not insist on this, in order to hasten agreement. The five billion first payment is in he made by Germany, la cash or securities, before May 1, 1921. It is supposed the total to be demanded wilt be about $45,000,-000.000

Owlag to the Illness of President Wilson during the early part of the week, the commission on the league of antline did not meet until Thursday meat. eventag. At that time the completed draft of the coveannt, comprising 27 articles, was submitted. There is no longer say doubt in l'arls that the lengue covennat will be a part of the peace treaty, and la this country the opposition seems to be losing some of its vehemence.

It was announced that the commission had adopted a section specifically sufeguarding the Moaroe doctriae, and that Geneva, Switzerland, had been selected as the sent of the lengue of aatloas.

An important and interesting part of the treaty, wideh has been formulated, denis with water and rall comminiculions in enemy states. Freedom of transportation through Germany and Austrin and comility of treatment in ports and harbors are provided. The regulation of transportation over the Ithine and Danube provides for the eatrance of Prance, Switzerland and some nonpartisan states to the present Mannbelm convention between Germany and Holland covering the navigation of the Rhine.

The European commission controlling the mouths of the Danube will he continued, representatives of present enemy states being excluded from it. and a similar interactional commission will be established provisionally for the upper Duaube, This will last natil a new general Danulee convention is established.

A new international convention covering the navigation of the Elbe and Oder rivers is recommended to protect the laterests of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia and give them freedom of aavigation without discriminating dutles, down through German territory to the North and Baltic seas. These states would be further given free port privileges at certain north German harbors in order that they may be enabled to develop their export and import commerce.

Bolshevism made another hig play last week when a soviet government of Bavarla was set up in Musich by the revolutionary central conacil. The landing was dissolved and people's commissions appointed. This action was supported in Wurzburg and Itatishon, but throughout Bavaria generally It was violently opposed not only by the bourgeoisle but also by the peasaats. The latter hold control of the food supply and declared they would refuse to deliver food while the saviet government remained in power. The bolshevists prepared measures for the communization of property and the formation of a Red army, while the government they sought to replace, reagainst the soviet government and ousted its agents after severe fighting. The diet met in Bamburg and the miaisters said they regarded the situation with confidence and that outside help to suppress the bolshevists was act needed.

The communist government of Hungary rejected the propositions made by General Smuts for the allies, concerning the neutral zone and other matters, and made counter-proposals, with which Smuts returned to Paris, Meanwhile the Hungarian bolshevists were cheered by the news that Lenine was sending them 150,000 men. In an intercepted wireless message to Tchitcherin Russian foreign minister, liela Kun, sold: "We do not want to use the dictatorship of the llungarian proletariat to take hourgeois chestnuts out of the fire for the bourgeoisle. When the German proletariat shall have power man imperial am, nad will throw nut Scheldemaan, Ehert, Noske, David and their press valets."

Persistent efforts to induce German Austria to go holshevik were hampered by the dependence of the Austrians on the allies for food, but Anisterdam dispatches said a soviet republic was proclaimed in Salzburg, which is near the Bayariaa korder. la Vicana conditions became steadily worse and acts of violence increased. A ateeting of the aoldiers and workmen's council of Vienas was called for April 14 for the purpose of discussing a soviet form of govern-la Germany there were contiaual ontbreaks against the Etert government, the greatest demonstrations belag in Essea, Magdeburg and in the former duchy of Brunswick. The Essen radicals brought about a strike of the Krupp workers and selzed the plant, but were ousted by government troops, after which two-thirds of the men went back to work. The lneurgents of Magdeburg also were routed by soldiers see t by Minister of Military Affairs Noske, From Branswick came reports of a strong movement in favor of a soviet government, and communists of Saxony made a like demand.

As had been anticipated, the ailles were forced to evacuate Odessa, being attacked by an overwhelming aumber of Ukrainian holsheviki. Tids was really a considerable trimph for Lenine and Trotzky, for they gained control of the most fertile regions of southern Itussia besides capturing large supplies of cash. The ailled commander withdrew his troops, numbering about 50,-000, to Constantinople and Itommon'a. In North Russin the soviet troops uppeared to be preparing for a renewal of their offensive, despite their recent valu and costly attempts against the allied forces. British re-enf reements and American engineers spited from England for Archangel, Decidedly impleasant was the admisdon by the war department that open mutiny was threatened recently by the Agierlenn troops la North Itussla unless Washington speedily annuaced its policy as to early withdrawal of the armed forces in that region. Some of the area thatly refused to go to front tiae positions. The American soldiers cannot understand why they are called on to make war against Busslans when war has not been declared, and it is declared this feeling is shared by the troops of other nationalities. Itepresentutives of the anti-holshevik Russlons have repentedly said in this constry that they ask only munitions and moral support from the nilles, and have urged that all the armed forces of the latter be withdrawa from Itassia as speedily as possible.

The Estbonians reported contlaned successes against the bolsheviki, including the capture of seven villages and many prisoners.

Conditions in Itoumania nad Poland are causing the aitles considerable worry, for there, is danger, some feel, of a great botshevist combination of Russians, Hungarians nad Germas that would crush those two countries. The ailled troops that went from Odessa to Itonaunia fusing to retire, set itself up in Bam- will help some, but it was felt that ao herg. Later in the week the citizens time should be lost in getting General and officials of Wurzhurg struck Halter's Polish divisions to Polnad, Marshal Foch arranged with the Go mans that those divisions might be truasported by train across Geraiany, and if necessary might he landed in Danzig. In this compromise of the dispute with the Huns over the East I'russian port, it is felt by many that the ullies yielded teo ensity to Germany and did not give due support to the claims of Poland. In England Premier Lloyd George was bitterly assailed for his Danzig policy.

> Frenkish weather worked havor in the Southwest and West last week. In north Texns, southern Oklahoma and Arkansas there was a terrific tornado that killed about one hundred persons, injured many more and destroyed property worth millions of dollars. Heavy snow in the Rocky mountain states tied up the railreads and demoralized wire communication.

tell ye that bony old flager of hers burnt a hole in him. He couldn't stand it. I knew he'd hlow up some day uader the strain. She got him at last."

"Who got him?" another asked. "Rovia' Kate. She killed him pointing her flager at him-so." "She's got an evil eye. Everyhody's afraid o' the crazy ol' trollope."

"Nonsense! She Isn't half as crazy as the most of us," said the lawyer. "In my opinion she had a good reason for pointing her finger at that man. She came from the same town he did over in Vermont. Ye doa't kaow what imprened there."

The doctor arrived. The crowd made way for him. He knelt beside the still ligure and made the tests. He rese and shook his head, saying: "It's all over. Let oue o' these hoys ge down and bring the undertaker." Itenjamin Grimshaw, the richest man la the township, was dend, and I have yet to hear of any mourners.

Three days luter I saw his hody lowered luto its grave. The little, brokeuspirited wife stood there with the same sad smile on her fuce that I had noted when I first saw her in the hills. Roviu' Kate wus there is the clothes she had worn Christmas day. She was greatly changed. Her hair was acatly combed. The wild look had left her eyes. She was like one whose back is relieved of a heavy hurden. Her lips moved as she scattered little red squarea of paper into the grave. I suppose they thought it a crazy whim of fiers—they who saw her do ft. r thought that I understood the curious bit of symbolism and so did the schoolmaster, who stood beside me. Doubtless the pieces of paper nambered her curses. "The scarlet sina of his youth are lying down with him in the dust," Hacket whispered as we walked away together. (END OF BOOK TWO.)

THE SEPULCHRE

By Annie Johnson Flint "The third day he shall rise again... Sa they... made the sepsichra ours, sealing the stone,
... He is not here; for he is risen, as he baid."
— Mathew 20: 19; 27: 66; 26: 6.

The Man had died on the cross,
And they laid him in the tomb;
The Living Stone in the stone,
The Rock in the rock-hewn room; The Note in the rock-newn room;
They left him alone with Death,
And scaled the stone at the door;
They made the sepulchre sure,
And set their watch before.

"Lest his friends should steal him And say that he rose," they said.
But Life escaped from Death,
And the God-man rose from the dead.

The ekeptical minds of men
Still think the eepulchre sure,
But Christ had said, "I will arise,"
And the counsels of God endure.

Still his disciples go To carry the wondrous word:
"The Lord is risen indeed! We know, we have seen and heard."
And the tomb men think so sure,
With the seal of their scorn on the door,—

The place where the Lord once lay,—
Is empty forevermore.

Largest Earth Embankment,

The Belle Esurche irrigation dam in South Pakeda is the largest earth embankment in the world. Its construction was unthorized by congress at a cost of $5,000,000. From an engineering standpoint this project is one of the most interesting which the government has yet undertaken. Its principul structure is the carifien dam. This dike, which closes the lowest degree ston to the rim of a natural basin, is 6,200 feet long, 20 feet wide on top und 15 feet high in the highest place, The inside face of this structure, which has a slope of one to two, is protected from wind and wave action by two feet of screened gravel, on which are placed concrete blocks each four by six feet. The cubical contents of this dike are 42,000,000 feet, or about hulf of the famous pyramids of Cheops in Egypt. The reservoir times a year, especially at spring created by this dam covers about 0,000 acres and will be the largest lake in the state.

She had given no reaon for the desired absence; she had not even spoken to Corwin after obtaining his permission - she had walked out, her shoulders squared, her head held high. Many times Corwin had looked at the vacant chair with disquieting interest.

They talked of the Victory Losnboth Roberts and Miller. Corwin said nothing, for of late he was strangely reluctant to talk shout the hond isues. He was even beginning to feel guilty every time he thought of them.

He was quick to note that both Miiier and Itoberts had lost some of the vindictiveness that had formerly characterized their reference to the bond issues; they spoke in quieter tones; they were not so demonstrative; they weighed their words more. It seemed to Corwin as he watched and listened. that their faces expressed guilt such as was in his own heart.

Corwin and Roberts exchanged glances, and both reddened.

"I see you do," grinned Miller, maliciously.

It was Corwin who answered. "You've changed your tune a little, since last week," he said. "It was only isst week that I heard you say you thought the Government was going too far."

"Weil, i'm waking up!" declared Milter; "I'm beginning to see that I've been too narrow minded and tight. 1 got to thinking that I spend hundreds of dollars every year for things I could do without. And last night 1 subscribed to fifty thousand dollars' worth.

Miller had raised his voice. There had been an exultant note in it-it sounded like the voice of a man who has triumphed over some base passion that has threatened him; he was mocking it, laughing st it.

None of the men had heard a step on the stairs-two, in fact-a heavy, uncertain chimping, and a lighter step. But the three turned simultaneously when they heard a bearty voice from the direction of the doorway. It srid:

"I want to shake hands with the man who said that!"

When Corwin's gaze went to the door he got up quickly sud stood, leaning a little forward, his body rigid, his eyes wide with astonishment, bis face slowly whitening.

For on the threshold, his arms spread wide against the jambs to steady himself, a broad, genisi smile on his face, was Ben King.

Corwin saw Molly standing behind ber brother. Both her hands were on Ben's shoulders; her face was pale and in her eyes was mingled pride and pity. For Ben was blind, bis forehead was scarred, and his sightless eyes were roving from point to point in the room as he endeavored to locate the owner of the voice which be had heard as be had been sbout to enter the room

CHAPTER IX

CORWIN was in the grip of an emoas he watched Ben King shake bands with Gary Miller. He heard Ben and Miller talking, but paid little attention to their words, for he was watching Moliy. The girl stood behind Ben until Miller placed him gently in a chair; and then she drew another ehair near the young man-close to him, so that she reached out and patted one of his hands as it lay on the arm of the chair-snd she watched "Looks like Falltown's going to fall him; worshipfully, with a sad, pitying half-smile which meant that she was Corwin looked sharply at him, for glad to have him back even though Alliler's voice was hosrse and low- he would never see her again. Ben was in uniform. He was big, "Fallure is getting to be a habit strong-a magnetic figure; a force that could never more move without direction, but nevertheless a force.

Instinctively, Ben dominated, 11is presence seemed to fill the room-the stmosphere grew formal, military. Unconsciously Roberts and Miller straightened; Corwin felt as though some power within him was urging him to salute. Something about Benhis erect carriage, his squared shoul ders, the set of his head, the uniform he wore-everything about him commanded interest and attention. Ben brought a breath of far-off France into the room with him-a suggestion of force, of battle and of death. He symholized indomitability, cohesive power -he was a visible unit embodying an stem of national spirit; he was a part individuality, I think. Itut he gains of that great arm of government which expresses itself in force,

And unconsciously, involuntarily, the three men in the room with bim paid tribute—the tribute of silence, of sttention and respect.

Corwin peered intently at searching his face for signs, for indieations that Ben barbored resentment against his Government for the loss of his sight. He watched closely for "The little fellow works hard. He the slightest expression which would usually gets only one newspaper a tell him that Ben regretted his experience. with her free band; be saw Roberts and Miller stiffen; and he felt a queer constriction in his own throat as the muscles tightened oddly. When Moliy removed the hand from her eyes and looked at Corwin, she saw that his face was dead white.

"Well, I suppose I won't see the old place any more," said Ben, seeming to comprehend the significance of the aiience that had followed his words. "That's a figure of speech with me, now. But I shall be able to feel-and that will be plenty." He laughed, and there was a flavor of scorn in the sound.

"Some people don't seem to realize just what this war means."

"That's more than some people do-"Some men isn't it?" he went on. don't seem to know bow to feel. When I landed, and they told me that Falltown had failed in all four of the Liberty Loan campaigns, I tell you it made me feci. There were times when I was on the point of denying that I came from Falltown. And when I heard Mr. Miller say that he had hought fifty thousand dollars' worth of the Victory Lonn I was so tickied that I had to say something. It seemed to me that Molly had brought me here purposely-where she knew would hear some good news."

Molly did not look at Corwin; hut be thought he knew why she had hrought her brother to his office. Roberts knew, also. His face was crimson with embarrassment and guilt. Corwin looked at Molly and wondered if she would tell Ben that he had heen recreant—that his patriotism was of a negligible quality-that he measured it hy the standard of money. He cringed from the direct look in her eyes when she gazed at him; and the look made him wonder what Ben would say to him if he knew the trutb that he was talking to slackers, thinking them patriots who had upheld his arms in the great fight for world freedom. Ben's eyes were sightiess, and yet Corwin dreaded to have them turned upon him with the question: Why didn't you buy?

Of the three men, Miller was the more composed. Almost at the last mirute he had saved himself from and the doubt has been raised whether possibility of accusation—and any his face showed his satisfaction. lie even glaneed at the other two with malicious amusement.

"Some people," went on Ben, unaware of the tension in the room, "don't seem to realize just what this war means. I didn't know, myself, until I landed in France. I used to like to fight; but I always did my fighting by myself - just because I liked to fight. It was different over there. It's a queer feeling that grips a fellow when there's a hunch of dressed alike and all fighting for the same object. There's something about it that gets under a man's skin and fills him with something he can't express.

"A man loses something-it's his more than he loses. I've heard feliows call it discipline and trainingand stuff like that. But I know it's something else. For a long time it bothered me, and then I flually thought it out. It's country—nothing iess; it's pride of race; it's in know ing that you are doing it for the folks at home; that they are back of youwatching you, cheering you en-doing all they can to belp you liek the other fellow. It's in knowing that your folks back home are putting their trust in you; that they are expecting you to bring bonie the bacon -that they know you are going to do it. A fellow just has to fight like blazes when he renilzes that."

"llow did you-how were you wounded, Mr. King?" This was Miller; his voice was low Ben flushed and bis jaws tightened; and be laughed shortly.

"A fragment of shrapnel. Hit me a glancing blow square between the though reminiscent of a soul-fire out eyes, paralyzing the nerves. Put me clean out. I spent three months in 'blighty'." "Where?" Again Mitter spoke.

Where did it happen?" "While we were straightening out the San Miniel salient. It was pretty hot there-while it lasted." He paused, but in response to Miller's request that he describe the battie-or rather that part of it in which he was engaged-be went on, laughing lowiy:

"I used to think that if I ever got into a battle I would keep my senses

TURKISH NO MORE

Whole World Rejoices That "the Infidel" Has Been Driven From Holy City.

ASTER will be celchrated in Palestine as never before this many centuries, and ail the Christian world will celebrate with grenter fervor and deeper reverence now that the hand of the "infidei Turk" is removed.

It is exactly 674 years since the Turk drave out the Christians and took possession of icrusulem, after it had been taken by Frederick H. March 17. 1220, who crowned himself king of the Lutin kingdom, in imitation of that earlier king of Jerusalem, Godfrey of Bouilion (1009).

Land of Pilgrimage.

l'alestine had been assigned to the Emperer of the East in 305 A. D., and was nominally Christian at timt time, when pligrimage to the Holy land berame nimost a cult and the finding of relies became a regular pursuit in ail the places identified with the life of

This was the period that might almost be termed the Christianizing of Palestine, for Christinnity had developed far more vigorously at Itome and in other parts of the itoman empire than in the Holy Land itself, up to this time. Constantine had made it the state religion and Heiena had found the "True Cross," so that there was a great stirring of interest throughout the land. Many fine churches were built, and Justinian erected the Golden Gate and part of a great church, now the Ei Aksa mosque (527-565).

Christians Persecuted.

It was in 614 that Chosroes 11, king of Persin, made his great inroad, persecuting the Christians wherever he found them, especially in what is now Armenia, and capturing Jerusaiem. The Emperor Heracilus managed to regain control (629), but he had to yield infore the might of the Caliph Omar (637), who erected many great structures, especially the mosque called after him, upon the great rock which had been the site of the temple

For more than 400 years the Mohammedans held sway, nntil as a result of the Crusades Godfrey of Bouilion took possession in 1099. The Christian powers could not, however, hold possession, for they were always fighting among themselves, and so Saindin, the mighty leader of the Moslenis, gained a perminent hold over the land of l'ulestine and Jerusalem In 1187.

It was during the next century that the Christians under the leadership of Frederick 11 gained possession of Palestine for the last time, until our own day. But with dissension among the Christians of that time it was not difficult for the Turks to regain control in 1244 and retain it ever since, in one form or muother. Surrender of Jerusalem.

The surrender of Jerusalem to the liritish forces last December, and the subsequent conquest of much of the rest of the land now establishes Christing control, at least for the present. will dare to suggest that the holy places ugain he turned over to the power of the Mosiem, no matter what the terms of peace may be.

Precisely what local changes in privlieges of worship will come out of the change may not be foretoid. For a iong time a strange situation has prevailed in Jerusaiem. The holy sepuleher, for example, with its relies of Christian trensure, hus been used by Greeks, Armenians and Western Christians lu ulternation, the control reother fellows all around him - ail maining with the Turkish authorities. Nuturally many disputes have arisen out of so strange a situation.

This Easter Significant

about me so that I would be able to describe what I had seen when I got back to God's country. But I've discovered that in battle about all one's senses are definitely and firmly fixed upon self. It ail seems to be horribly uureai. You find individuality on the battleficid-you find that you are you: that you are alone, in spite of the fact that men are all around you. You've got to use your own courage; you've got to fight yourself. You can't borrow courage.

SABBATH OF LIGHT

Holy Saturday a Great Day for the Pilgrims Gathered in Jerusalem.

URING holy week the Christian and Moslem pligrims in Jerusalem visit the sacred river Jordan. On Holy Thursday the Greek patriarch washes the feet of 12 pligrims. This service and ceremony is performed in the open court in front of the cathedral, on a temporary platform decorated with olive bougles. The patriarcles of the Cutholic and Armenber communities perform a similar service tastde the enthedral, to widelt the general public is not admitted. On Good Friday allday services are in order, and special services with ceremonies commeno rating the eracilizion take place from six in the evening until midnight. On Holy Saturday, also known as the "Sabbath of Light," all lights in the cothedral are extinguished. Their Easter Offering

To the normal mind there can be no compromise, writes II. Lee Mills in the Houston Post. 3f Christ dld not rise from the dead, the most gignutic frond by the history of the world was perpetrated and every adulater of the Gospel is either a conscious or a deluded "faker." If there was no resurrection, the whole missionary propagoods is foolish and a failure and evangelize and "Barmonlze" become synonomous terms. Does the history of Christian adssions, from the first to the twentleth century suvor of frand, or even of delusion? The command to evangelize all nations was given after the resurrection.

After all the argnorents have been marshaled before busin reison for or against the return of Christ in the glorilled body, the question of does Jesus live can be answered by the belleving Christian without artificial proof. If like Putd, he knows whom he believes, doubts about the details of the event of the resurrection do not concern blie.

The Hare and Easter.

The origin of the Easter rabbit is nnknown. There is a German legend to the effect that the lare was originaily a bird and was clonned into a quadruped by the Goddess Ostara, and in gratitude to Ostarn, or Eastre, the have exercises its original bird fanction to lay eggs for the goldess on her festal day. The children among the Pennsylvania Germans are told on Easone or several days at the longest, and ter morning that this "Oshler has" do not enter into nor understand the laid the colored eggs that are given real religious or social life of the peo- to them, or which are placed in nests times - once with gas - W.
